£50k cheat faces losing her home

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A FRAUDSTER caught by sharp-eyed shop staff in Haverhill must sell her house to pay for her crimes.

Trina Spiteri, 47, who waged a campaign of fraud against catalogue shop chain Argos, was ordered to hand over £50,000 or face prison.

Her two-year run of defrauding the company's branches across Suffolk and Essex came to an abrupt halt in May 2007 when staff at the Haverhill store became suspicious about two teenagers who were trying to obtain a refund for allegedly defective goods.

Spiteri became implicated because the teenagers tried to use a bank statement bearing her name and address as proof of identity.

Police went to Spiteri's home in Kings Road, Rayleigh, Essex, where they found details of a string of Argos transactions, all involving obtaining gift vouchers.

Officers went on to uncover documentation involving the sale by Spiteri of Argos vouchers worth £55,414, all at below face value.

The scam saw Spiteri and her accomplices exploit a now-closed loophole in the store's returns policy.

Youngsters hit gold with videos

YOUNGSTERS from West Suffolk middle schools have created their own motivational videos for a summer holiday project.

Children from Chalkstone, Clare, Parkway and Castle, made the positive-thinking films and photos as part of a summer school at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College.

Inspired by the motto "I'm gifted and talented and proud of it", the pupils produced several videos, which were shown to parents at the end of the two-week summer school, alongside drama, dance and music performances.

The children also visited London for a day to see Ripley's Believe it or Not Museum, in Piccadilly Circus, and the Tate Modern.

Activity co-ordinator Neil Williams said: "It was a wonderful experience and working with so many ambitious students was a real privilege."

The students were also enrolled into the Suffolk Children's University, which awards points to all pupils who take part in after-school activities.

Jackie Fairweather, the children's university co-ordinator, attended the school's final show and presented a gold certificate to all students who attended all 35 hours of the project.

She said: "All the students were enthusiastic, original and a credit to their families and schools."

Tania's five tasks to mark her 50th

Challenging times: Tania Watson who is planning to celebrate every decade of her life.

Picture: Keith Jones 582668.

Completing a challenge for each decade of her life will mark the 50th birthday of Tania Watson next year – including taking part in an 11-mile 'Girls Night Out' sponsored walk in aid of her local hospice.

Tania, who lives at Kedington and has two grown-up children, decided rather than slowing up, to undertake five challenges to celebrate each decade of her life.

Other challenges will include losing two dress sizes and swimming a mile, a particular trial for her as she hates water.

Tania has already completed the Race for Life earlier this year and her final and biggest challenge will be to take part in the marathon distance Moonlight Walk for Breast Cancer Research UK next March.

Tania will take part in the St Nicholas Hospice Care's 'A Girls Night Out' on Saturday, September

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

19, a female-only 11.2 mile evening circular walk around Bury St Edmunds, which appealed to her for a number of reasons.

She said: "My mother-in-law, Beryl, was supported by the hospice until she sadly died in June. While I was visiting her, I saw a leaflet advertising the fundraising event and thought that it was something I'd love to do, as I'd been so impressed by the care and attention that the hospice gave to her.

"This decision then led to me choosing to set myself five challenges over the next year to complete.

"I even hate being splashed, so the swim will be quite a challenge, but I am really going to have to train for the Moonlight Walk, as I have not done any amount of exercise for years."

Tania, who works at Paragon

Signs and Labels in Haverhill, (a company which has also supported the hospice in the past), is looking forward to the walk and the camaraderie that a girl-only event will create.

She said: "I know a couple of people who are taking part but I'm really doing it as my own personal challenge, safe in the knowledge that all the other woman taking part will support me.

"Most importantly, I'm doing it as a way of saying a sincere thank you to the hospice for the care they gave to Beryl.

"I'm really looking forward to it, especially to a well earned drink at the end with all the rest of the ladies."

If you would like to support Tania, please email her at Tania@Paragon-Signs.co.uk or if you would like to take part please contact the events and challenge fundraiser, Jenny Baskett, on (01284) 747614 or email jenny.baskett@stnh.org.uk

Jane dives in to help Teenage Cancer Trust appeal

A FEAR of being overweight and unfit in her fifties has inspired a mum to enter the Great North Swim in aid of the Teenage Cancer Trust.

Jane Hurst decided to challenge herself in a big way by taking on her first outdoor swimming event, at Lake Windermere, Cumbria, on September 12.

Jane, of Clements Lane, Haverhill, found expert help close at hand, with world-class outdoor swimmer and West Suffolk Swimming Club coach Alan Bircher living nearby.

She sent him an SOS email and he stepped in to start coaching her for the challenge.

Jane said: "I have been plodding up and down pools all my life, but I have never swum outdoors.

"My eldest daughter, Eleanor, inspired me when I went to watch her do the Great North Run last year. I went on the website to check her results and saw the swim advertised.

"I've always wanted to do something like that so I thought, why not do it for the Teenage Cancer Trust?"

Jane added: "I am 50 plus and I consider that an achievement, as many of those who get cancer as teenagers will never reach their 50s. My sister survived cancer 20 years and that has also motivated me."

The appeal to raise £1 million towards the cost of a new TCT unit at Addenbrooke's Hospital, spear-headed by our sister newspaper, the Cambridge News, has passed the £750,000 mark. Work on the unit is due to start in December.

If you are organising an event to help the appeal, let us know and we will publicise it. Call (01223) 434439 or contact news_desk@cambridge-news.co.uk

Jane's Just Giving website is www.justgiving.com/Jane-Hurst.

Boy hurt in accident at zebra crossing

A 10-YEAR-OLD boy required emergency medical treatment after he was in an accident with car at a zebra crossing.

The youngster was hit by a black Audi A4 as he made his way across Burton End, near the junction with School Lane, in Haverhill, on Tuesday at about 4.45pm.

Witnesses say the boy had been cycling across the zebra crossing on his purple BMX when he was hit by the car, which was driving at about 20mph.

The accident closed the road for around 45 minutes.

It emerged the boy had only suffered minor injuries to his arm when paramedics assessed his condition.

He was taken to hospital but released later that evening.

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The collision caused lengthy delays for drivers on Burton End, who were forced to turn around and exit Haverhill using the Withersfield Road route.

Passengers on a Stagecoach bus directly behind the Audi were also delayed by up to an hour.

One eyewitness, who did not want to be named, believed the boy had a very lucky escape.

"He came out of a side alley on to the crossing, so the driver didn't have any time to see him.

"She was going fairly slowly – about 20mph – but if she'd been travelling faster, it could have been a lot worse.

"He wasn't wearing a bike helmet either, so it's fortunate that he'll be OK.

Injured: the boy is treated at the scene.

CP

"It looked quite serious for a while because he was lying in the road for about 20 minutes and he wasn't moving.

"I think it was just shock though and people didn't want to move him in case he had suffered a serious spinal or neck injury."

Police are still investigating the accident, but reissued advice to young cyclists to take care during the summer holidays.

A spokesman for Suffolk police said: "We would encourage all cyclists to be aware of their surroundings and to take measures to stay safe.

"Cyclists should always use cycle paths where they exist, or cycle carefully on roads where they don't. And always wear a cycle helmet and get your bike regularly checked to ensure it is roadworthy.

"We would also urge other road users to look out for cyclists and give them time and space to make their manoeuvres.

"Safer cycling courses are often run for children, especially during the summer holidays – for more information contact your local Safer Neighbourhood Team or Police Education Partnership (PEP) Officer on (01284) 774100."

Cheat faces losing her home after £50,000 fraud

By taking broken toys and items sold by Argos back into stores along with bank statements showing transactions in Argos, the group was able to claim refunds by way of the vouchers, despite not having receipts.

Some genuine purchases were made, but the statements were used repeatedly to claim refunds.

Spiteri claimed back thousands of pounds in vouchers, which she sold at below face value on the online auction site eBay.

Earlier this year Spiteri pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to steal.

At the hearing she was sentenced to 40 weeks in prison, suspended for 18 months and told she must remain under probation service supervision for 18 months and complete 100 hours of unpaid community work.

Investigations then took place into the financial implications of Spiteri's fraud and she has now appeared at Ipswich Crown Court, where Judge David Goodin gave her six months to find the £50,000 cash identified by the Crown Prosecution Service as the proceeds of her crimes.

The court heard that Spiteri was facing the prospect of having to sell the family home as it was the only asset she had to raise the £50,000.

Judge Goodin warned Spiteri that if she failed to raise the £50,000, she would face 18 months in prison instead.

He said if the house was not sold in time, more time would only be granted if there were special reasons.

Green light for sign

PLANS to put up a 7.1m-high illuminated sign next to the main steps of Haverhill's new Tesco store have been given the go-ahead.

The proposals for the sign were given the nod by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee, despite an objection from a resident in Hundon Place.

The homeowner said the sign was too big for the proposed location and should be reduced in size.

There were also concerns about light pollution, despite Tesco offering to switch it off 15 minutes after the store closed.

P.O. cuts 'will hit customers'

MORE than 500 people a week will be inconvenienced by the early closure of two parcel collection depots, a union has claimed.

Members of the Communication Workers Union (CWU) say the decision to close the Haverhill Callers Offices at 2pm – three hours earlier than usual – will have a major impact on Royal Mail customers.

They claim a survey in 2007 showed that around 50 people visited the offices in Haverhill and Newmarket each day between 2pm and 5pm to collect postal packages.

Both offices are affected by the proposals.

Steve Butts, local spokesman

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

for the CWU, believed the closures could also pave the way for further cuts.

He said: "This plan is evidence that Royal Mail's vision of modernisation is to run down the British postal service.

"The combined total members of the public in both towns that will be frustrated at not being able to collect their items of mail is over 500 and all of this is at a time when packet traffic is in growth.

"This service reduction is purely a cost cutting exercise by Royal Mail management as they continue on their voyage of a race to the bottom."

Youngsters get hooked on fishing

GONE fishing will be the message from a whole new generation of anglers who have been given some tips to get them started.

Youngsters aged between seven and 14 years were invited along to the Newt Pond at Castle Playing Fields in Haverhill to take part in a 'Learn to Fish' event organised by St Edmundsbury park rangers.

A major refurbishment of the area was undertaken after Lottery funding was awarded, including the provision of new fishing platforms and re-stocking with fish.

Those taking part in the event were given a chance to practise their angling skills and given advice to help them catch more fish.

It was free of charge, with even the bait provided, and all the youngsters needed to take was their fishing tackle.

Future events organised by rangers include a Great Big Bug Hunt on Thursday, August 20, for 5-11-year-olds, and anyone interested should ring (01440) 710745, as booking is essential.

Firm submits new plan

A PLAN to build a new industrial unit with pedestrian access and a new footway at Boundary Road, Haverhill, has been submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council by Haverhill Small Factories Ltd of Piperill Way, Haverhill.

Raising funds for hospice: brothers George and Dudley Mynott, with Dudley's wife Phyl and their 14-year-old granddaughter Amy Hull.

Birthday bash a boost for charity

TWO brothers have raised £400 for a West Suffolk hospice by holding a joint birthday party.

George and Dudley Mynott collected the cash from guests at Castle Camps Village Hall during the celebrations for their respective 65th and 60th birthdays.

It was also a chance for George to meet old friends from the village, where he grew up, having moved away to Yorkshire 20 years ago.

He said: "It was lovely to see so many old faces – some of whom I didn't know would be there."

"It was a wonderful night and to raise so much money for St Nicholas Hospice Care makes it even more special."

The idea to raise money for the hospice came from Dudley's wife Phyl, who was helped by her 14-year-old granddaughter Amy Hull.

Phyl said: "We wanted to have a party to celebrate these two special birthdays but we came unstuck when people asked what they wanted as presents."

"We decided to ask for donations to the hospice instead as it is a charity that means so much to people in this area."

Eco-friendly primary school gets go-ahead

WORK on a new primary school in Haverhill is set to begin in January after it was given the go-ahead by planners.

The New Clements Primary School, in Greenfields Way, will be the first new school built in the town as part of the shake-up of education in the Haverhill area, which will see the axing of middle schools and a move to a two-tier system.

The school in Puddlebrooks Field will replace the current one in Gloucester Road and will have two sports pitches, 29 car parking spaces and 62 spaces for cycles.

Due to open in September 2011, the school will also be near the Cartwheels Children's Centre and the Clements Surgery.

Cllr Graham Newman, portfolio holder for education at Suffolk County Council, welcomed the decision by St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development committee to approve the school plans.

He said: "I am sure it will be a wonderful asset for Haverhill when it opens. It will be designed to 21st century building standards and will boast some fantastic environmental innovations, such as a wind turbine and a woodchip-powered boiler."

"It will also be close to Cartwheels Children's Centre, which will cut down

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

the need to move and adapt to new circumstances, which is a key benefit of the two-tier system of education."

The school, which will cover 1,800sq.m, will also have the potential to expand and accommodate up to 315 pupils as Haverhill's population grows.

Two other schools have also submitted plans to expand their teaching areas.

St Felix Primary School wants to demolish its caretaker's bungalow and build a new teaching block and extended school entrance, while Samuel Ward is seeking permission to replace its playgroup classroom with a special educational needs facility.

Under the changes to a two-tier system in September 2011, children will stay at primary schools until they are 11, then move on to upper school. This will increase pupil numbers and facilities needed at primary schools in Haverhill and surrounding villages.

The new school will be located on Puddlebrook Field, a short distance from the original school, and the old site has been 'swapped' with St Edmundsbury.

It is believed that St Edmundsbury intends to keep the current school site as green space to replace the Puddlebrook Field.

NHS chief executive to quit his post

THE chief executive of NHS Cambridgeshire, Chris Banks, has announced that he will be stepping down from the post in January.

Mr Banks, who joined the trust in January 2007, will become joint managing director of an IT firm he helped a friend to establish.

The trust is paying back a £38 million debt – down from the £52 million deficit it inherited when it was formed from a merger of smaller primary care trusts (PCTs) in 2006.

Maureen Donnelly, chairman of the trust, said: "Chris Banks has been one of the best chief executives we could have had over the past few difficult years.

"We will miss him but I know it is the best decision for him. I wish him every success in developing his IT venture."

She said the trust was now in a stronger position thanks to his hard work, dedication and ability.

Mr Banks said: "After much consideration, I have decided to leave the NHS and would like to thank everyone for supporting me and the PCT in what has been a challenging role of leading us out of financial debt."

MP dodges the question

Sir, I recently wrote to our local MP Richard Spring after his expenses were published.

Like many of his constituents, Mr Spring works quite a lot in London. Unlike his constituents, he manages to claim both travel and a second home allowance.

The Conservative Party bought in the legislation that made sure, as a self-employed person, I couldn't do that if my contract was more than six months long.

I challenged Mr Spring about this and duly received a reply. Apparently, all will be fine as David Cameron has announced changes to the way MPs are required to act – I have to admit I wasn't as shocked by the fact they obviously need telling about morals as I should have been.

Mr Spring also claims to be one of the lowest-costing MPs in East Anglia – neatly skirting around my request for him to explain how it is that his party expects people to pay their own way but for MPs to get expenses for everything. Amazingly, one of the last remarks is that he thinks MPs should get more salary to cut down on some of the expenses!

Town listed among top TV fee dodgers in the county

HAVERHILL has come out fourth in a table of TV licence fee dodgers in Suffolk.

In the first six months of the year, 130 Haverhill residents were caught watching television without a licence, according to figures released by TV Licensing.

They were among more than 214,000 people who were caught out across the UK during the first six months of 2009. This included more than 590 in Ipswich and nearly 200 in Lowestoft.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Across the UK, around 5,000 more licence fee evaders were caught in the first six months of 2009 compared to the same period last year. The average evasion rate is currently just over five per cent.

During 2008/09, TV licence collection costs fell to 3.4 per cent of total income collected, compared to 3.6 per cent the previous year.

Joanna Pearce, TV Licensing spokeswoman, said: "These figures show our continued effectiveness in catching people who watch TV illegally and therefore penalise the honest majority who do pay."

"While evaders come from all income groups, we understand that in the current economic climate some people may find it difficult to pay their licence fee in one go."

"This is why we provide numerous ways to spread the cost, including monthly direct debit, which can be set up very quickly online, and a weekly cash payment plan."

A colour TV Licence currently costs £142.50 and is required by anyone watching or recording TV programmes as they are broadcast on a TV set, computer or any other equipment.

Anyone not holding a TV licence risks prosecution, and a fine of up to £1,000.

Further information on how and where to pay the licence fee can be found at www.tvlicensing.co.uk/info, or call 0844 800 6732.

Ride on: Jack Debondt hands over a cheque to Sue Long, from St Nicholas Hospice after his charity cycle ride raised £200. Picture: Keith Jones 582665.

Jack rounds up cash on ride

A SIX-YEAR-OLD boy got on his bike and cycled four miles to raise cash for a hospice which cared for his grandmother.

Caring youngster Jack Debondt, from Soham, presented a cheque for £200 to Sue Long, community fundraiser at St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Jack decided to raise money to say thank you to hospice after his grandma, Pauline Fotheringham, from Haverhill, was treated on a ward there. Sadly, she died earlier this month.

The sporty lad took time out of his holidays to cycle from one end of his home town to the other with his father Simon.

His mother, Tasnim Shah, said: "We are all so very proud of Jack. It was all his own idea and he was very determined to reach his fundraising target of £200.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"Jack came to the hospice to see grandma Pauline and he just wanted to say thank you."

Tasnim said Pauline was aware of Jack's fundraising effort and was very proud of him.

Ms Long described Jack as an "inspiration" adding: "To have a fundraiser so young is always nice and we were pleased to give Jack some presents to say thank you to him."

Jack said: "I rode from my house to the Cherry Tree pub and back. It was four miles and it took me about an hour to do it."

Jack, a pupil at St Andrew's Primary School in Soham, is already planning to organise a second sponsored cycle ride for the hospice when he returns to school in September.

'Sacked over age' Echo man claims

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE former editor of the Haverhill Echo has told an industrial tribunal he was unfairly selected for redundancy because of his age.

David Hart, 56, left the weekly newspaper last autumn after spending his entire 32-year career there, including his final three years as editor.

The newspaper's owners Anglia Newspapers, a subsidiary of Johnston Press, said his departure was part of a cost-cutting exercise, which saw the £32,000-a-year post disappear and combined with that of Bury Free Press's editor.

But Mr Hart, who joined the Echo as a trainee in November 1976, told a tribunal at Bury St Edmunds that he was removed from the post because he was the oldest editor in the newspaper group.

He said: "They decided to make me redundant to save money and then tried to work out how to cover my job."

The tribunal was told that no other editors within Anglian Newspapers were considered for redundancy.

Mr Hart said: "It is my view that the course of action taken was to avoid any sort of selection process in which I might have been involved."

"The Echo has been my whole working life. I have not spoken to one person who did not consider the decision was completely mad."

But Richard Parkinson, managing director of Anglia Newspapers, told the hearing that the decision followed a 23 per cent fall in advertising revenue in 2008.

"This decision was not to do with the importance of an editor. It was about trying to find more efficient ways of working in an extremely difficult set of trading conditions," he said.

Mr Parkinson said the Echo, which has a circulation of 4,658, provided an "extremely small" part of Anglia Newspapers' income and at one point looked as if it might start making a loss, although that had not happened.

Explaining the loss of the editor's job, Barry Peters, group editor, of Anglia Newspapers said: "The main reason for this proposal was that had the Haverhill Echo been a stand-alone business it would not have been sustainable."

Both Mr Peters and Mr Parkinson denied there had been any link between Mr Hart's age and the decision to make him redundant, saying they had recently hired a manager in the newspaper sales department at the age of 59.

The tribunal was adjourned and a verdict will be issued at a later date.

Plea for gardeners to help out older tenants

A HOUSING group is on the lookout for keen gardeners with a few hours to spare each week to support a new community initiative.

Green-fingered residents who can mow a lawn, trim a hedge or have the equipment to undertake basic gardening activities are being invited to help out Havebury Housing's older tenants.

Good rates of pay are on offer and the project will run until the end of September.

Head of new business at Havebury, Oonah Lacey, said: "A large proportion of Havebury tenants are aged over 60 and often struggle to keep on top of looking after their gardens.

"Havebury is committed to creating safe and pleasant places for people to live and gardening is part of this."

For an informal discussion and to find out more about this paid volunteering opportunity, contact Oonah Lacey on (01284) 722030.

Prize incentives plan for tenants

TENANTS could win a cash prize if they pay their rent on time.

A total of £2,000 is on offer to Havebury Housing tenants in Haverhill, Bury St Edmunds and surrounding villages, following the launch of a new incentive scheme to encourage them to keep on top of their payments.

Tenants who have kept their rent accounts up to date each quarter will be automatically entered into a prize draw to win £500. The draws will take place in September and December, with a bumper prize of £750 on offer next March for those who have kept up their payments for the whole year.

An additional prize draw for £250 will take place in October for all those who pay by direct debit, while £100 of the prize money from the December draw will be donated to the winner's chosen charity.

Jez Robbins, neighbourhood manager at Havebury, said: "We understand that, particularly in these difficult economic times, there are additional pressures on people's incomes.

"However, it is also more important than ever that Havebury receives regular payments from tenants so we can continue to provide the high level of services expected. That's why we've come up with this incentive scheme which we hope will encourage tenants to work with us, hand in hand."

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Havebury says it works closely with tenants to help them manage their finances and has a team of specialist advisors on hand to provide expert advice.

Residents also have access to schemes such as credit unions in Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds which offer basic banking and saving services, and a low cost home contents insurance programme.

Mr Robbins said: "Havebury offers more than just homes for residents. We work to make people's lives better and the financial services we provide form part of this.

"We want to help tenants achieve clear rent accounts and anyone who has concerns regarding their payments, or would like advice on benefits in general, should contact us."

As well as the prize draws for rent payers, Havebury is also offering a one-off payment, equivalent to a week's rent, for residents who are moving home and have kept a clear rent account, have no record of anti-social behaviour and have left their property clean and tidy.

Dancing with trash in forest

SOME old rubbish helped youngsters to create tribal themed costumes for a journey deep into the Amazon at a "Dancing in the Rainforest" event.

Dance East organised a two-day workshop for girls and boys aged 6 to 9 at Haverhill Arts Centre.

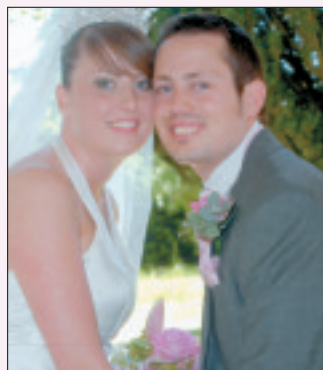

They used recycled materials to create their costumes and then learned some dance moves to perform in them.

Earlier in the week, older children went along to a "Mix 'n' Dance" summer school also organised by Dance East, where they learned to edit, mix and blend images to create a multimedia dance performance.

For information about other children's events at the arts centre these holidays phone (01440) 714140.

Jobless set to work for their benefit

JOBLESS people in Cambridgeshire will be forced to do up to six months work experience or face losing their benefits under a new Government pilot scheme.

The county is one of four areas selected by the Department of Work and Pensions to trial a "Work for Your Benefits" scheme, which will begin in October 2010.

Greater Manchester, Norfolk and Suffolk will also run the two-year pilot, which will apply to people who have been claiming dole for two years or longer.

Jobseekers who have turned down training opportunities or work placements will be asked to complete up to six months work experience to "improve their employability" or lose their benefits.

John Bridge, chief executive of Cambridgeshire Chambers of Commerce, said he was delighted the county had been chosen to trial the scheme.

He said: "We welcome anything to re-engage people with the world of work."

"The longer people are out of work the harder it is for them to find a job."

"It's often to do with attitude and this type of scheme is useful to help people stay positive and believe they can operate successfully in a work environment."

Mr Bridge added: "One of the worst parts of unemployment is the stress of doing nothing. It's actually more stressful than having too much to do. This is a good way to keep people connected to the working world."

BY JACK GROVES

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The scheme is part of the Government's plans to reduce the number of people on benefit by one million over the next seven years.

It is supported by the Conservatives, who claim Labour have actually lifted their idea.

Secretary of state for work and pensions, Yvette Cooper, said: "We want to make sure that short-term job losses are not allowed to turn into long-term unemployment which can scar communities for generations."

"The longer people are left out of work, and without recent work experience, the harder it is to get a new job."

She added: "We are investing £5 billion to help people who have lost their jobs."

Bidders have been invited to tender for the contract for the Norfolk, Cambridgeshire and Suffolk area, who must offer "tailored, full-time activity (work experience and employment support) for up to six months for some customers who finish Flexible New Deal without finding sustained work".

Would-be thieves flee empty handed

TWO men were disturbed while attempting to break into a garage at Cutbush, Wickhambrook.

The thieves tried to cut a padlock and force a door at the site between 3.35pm and 3.40pm on August 4.

No entry was gained and the two made off in a dark grey BMW.

One of the offenders is described as male, white, in his 30s, of large build with a shaved head.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Sgt Kevin Horton at the St Edmundsbury Rural South Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100.

Loss of sight is no barrier as Alan takes 100k Sahara trek in his stride

Character-building: Alan Chamley during his Sahara trek.

Pictures: Keith Heppell 579421.

JUST before dawn broke, Alan Chamley unzipped his tent and looked out at the view – a wide stretch of the Sahara desert, bathed in moonlight. The sand glittering, it was an incredible sight; a sight Alan will always remember.

"It was beautiful," says the father-of-two. "The moon was really bright, reflecting off the floor of the desert."

"Those very early mornings were one of the most amazing things about the trip. Normally I can't see anything in moonlight, but in the Sahara I could."

Alan, 50, is registered blind. Diagnosed with a degenerative eye condition more than 30 years ago, it has left him with just seven per cent sight in one eye; known as Retinitis Pigmentosa (RP), one of the symptoms is ever-increasing tunnel-vision.

Alan cannot drive, read or even recognise his wife's face. But, despite it all, he remains incredibly positive: determined to live life to the full, he's just trekked

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

100k in the Sahara to raise cash for charity.

"I am a glass half-full kind of person," says Alan, with a laugh. "But when I first saw the advert, asking for people to go on the trek, I thought I couldn't possibly do it. Yet I am so glad I did. It was an incredible experience."

"The whole time I was there I kept thinking: 'This is Africa! I'm in Africa!' But it wasn't just the place that was special – it was the people who really made it."

Alan was one of 14 visually impaired people to do the trek, which raised more than £50,000 for The British RP Society. They were accompanied by seven sighted volunteers.

"They did so much for us," explains Alan. "I used to lie awake at night thinking: 'How can I ever give back what I've received?'"

"Saying 'thank-you' a thousand times a day wasn't adequate. Even thinking about it now makes me feel emotional: they gave me so much."

Alan, who lives in Sawston, has had problems with his eyesight all his life. As a small child, he was found to have a lazy eye; by his teens, he was struggling to see at night; in his late teens, he was finally diagnosed with RP.

"I was glad I knew what it was, that I had a name for it," remembers Alan. "I was told that my eyesight would get worse, that one day I might lose it completely, but at the time I don't recall being traumatised or worried about it."

"All that was in the future: when you're 18 even 30 is old."

Alan met Wendy, his wife of 22 years, at a club for young Rotarians. "She knew from the start that I had dodgy vision," he says, with a smile. "But she – and her family – made me feel very much accepted."

The couple went on to have two sons, Stuart, 18, and Craig, 11.

They knew that RP is inherited: one of Alan's two brothers also has the condition. But, keen to have a family, they went ahead; although any daughters would have been carriers of the RP gene, they knew sons would not suffer from the disease themselves.

"At the moment there is no known cure," continues Alan. "But we're hopeful that, for future generations, that won't be the case: research is being carried out into silicone implants and genetic therapy, among other things."

Alan's eyesight has deteriorated, little by little, over the years. "I had to stop driving 18 years ago," he says.

"I can't read any more: four years ago I could read the Christmas cards when they came; three years ago I found I couldn't."

"I lost the ability to recognise faces four or five years ago. When I look at someone now, I can see their right eye and eyebrow and a bit of their nose."

"And that's not very clear: I have these kind of kinky lines in front of my eyes, called scotomas."

"I can't even recognise my wife's face. We were running a stall a few months ago, to raise money for the trek, and when Wendy came up to me I said: 'Can I help you?' – she said: 'No, you idiot, it's me.'"

"I know some people wouldn't think it, but I do consider myself lucky: I was able to see the boys growing up."

"And it's a family joke

Travel plans: Alan Chamley has signed up for another fundraiser, a trip to Namibia in 2010, when he will be joined by his wife Wendy.

that I can still spot food and drink at 50 paces . . ."

When Alan signed up for the trek last year, he was working for BT. Each trekker was set a fundraising target of £3,000: with help from his family and friends, and donations from several Cambridge colleges, Alan collected a total of £3,600.

"When you're down the pub and tell people you're doing a trek across the desert, people are quite impressed," he says.

"When they know you've got a visual impairment too, they are even more impressed; people were very generous."

During his fundraising, Alan's contract with BT came to an end. Beginning to apply for other jobs, he went for a post as services co-ordinator at Support 4 Sight, a charity in Saffron Walden.

"One of the questions was: 'Have you ever managed a project before?'" explains Alan. "I was able to say: 'Yes, a fundraising project'. I got the job and it's fantastic, I love it."

When Alan finally set off for the trek, in the spring of this year, he admits it was a daunting prospect.

"Even getting across Heathrow was harder than I thought it would be," he says.

"Normally I've got my wife or my sons with me. This time I was with a group of virtual strangers."

But Alan says the group soon began to bond – and finished the trek firm friends. "We had a good laugh," he explains. "I told the sighted trekkers not to worry if I fell over, that I'd just pick myself up again and it would be fine."

"One of them had real problems with left and right: she'd say: 'Left, left, keep going left – I mean right'."

"It's impossible to describe the Sahara, but one thing I noticed straight away was how quiet it is in the desert."

"As I was walking I was looking six or eight foot in front, to see where I was going."

"But the sighted people reminded me to look up at the scenery, to look at a sand dune in the distance, or a camel, or an ant running across the ground. In the desert, even an ant is a feature!"

The trek was tough: it took the group up and down dunes and across dusty plains in temperatures up to 35C.

Alan has an old ankle injury which flared up on the very first day but, dosing himself with painkillers, he didn't let the pain stand in his way.

The trek was, adds Alan, about raising awareness of RP as well as money to fund research into the disease.

"I use a symbol cane when I go out," he continues.

"More than anything, it's to warn other people that I might move a bit slowly, so they won't bump into me."

"Sometimes people do walk into you, but you have to think they just haven't seen the cane, that they're upset, or in a hurry, or have got something on their mind."

Alan enjoyed the Sahara trek so much, he has signed up for another fundraiser – a trip to Namibia in 2010.

Wendy will be going with him this time, as a sighted helper. In total, the couple are aiming to raise £6,500 for the RP Society.

"If I went totally blind in the future, I would have to accept it," concludes Alan.

"I think acceptance is the key actually: if you can accept what happens and get on with your life, that's a great help."

"Losing your eyesight can be quite isolating, but I think I've got a better social life now than ever."

"I know it might sound a bit strange, but if I woke up tomorrow and had full vision, I think I'd find it really confusing."

He added: "Having RP has made me who I am, and I'm not at all unhappy with that."

Agency 'squandered thousands of pounds'

BY CHRIS ELLIOTT

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CAMBRIDGE agency has been slammed for dishing out £12,000 of taxpayers' money – to a group which did a survey showing people in Egypt, Pakistan and Burma were happier than people in New Zealand, Switzerland and the UK.

The grant is one of several, totalling £115,000, paid by the East of England Development Agency to three think-tanks and a lobbying firm, according to the TaxPayers' Alliance.

The payouts were branded "nuts" by Richard Normington, Conservative Party spokesman in Cambridge.

The TaxPayers' Alliance has published a report looking into money spent by Government-funded bodies on political campaigning and lobbying. It details four payments made by the EEDA:

- £12,341 to the New Economics Foundation;
- £25,049 to the Institute for Public Policy Research (IPPR);
- £59,472 to a consultancy, Fishburn Hedges, for "public affairs, stakeholder engagement and public relations consultancy".

Criticised payouts: Richard Normington, Conservative Party spokesman.

- £18,454 to the New Local Government Network (NLGN);

Mr Normington said: "The New Economics Foundation is the body that said people in Egypt, Pakistan and Burma lead longer, happier and more meaningful lives than those of us here or in places like New Zealand or Switzerland. That's nuts."

Money is being squandered: Matthew Elliott of the TaxPayers' Alliance.

He said EEDA's role was to offer businesses support locally, not to spend money in this way.

"A Conservative government will end Regional Development Agencies and allow local authorities to form enterprise partnerships to promote economic development," he said.

Matthew Elliott, of the TaxPayers' Alliance, said: "Regional Development Agencies are ineffective, wasteful and unpopular, using taxpayers' cash to try to save their own skins.

"Instead of focusing on their mission, they are squandering money on lobbying politicians to persuade them not to abolish RDAs."

An EEDA spokesman said: "The New Economics Foundation won its funding through a competitive tendering process to conduct an economic appraisal demonstrating the benefits of planned investment into Norwich.

"This has informed subsequent local investment decisions.

"Funding to the IPPR facilitated a national research contract to undertake in-depth research in the East of England looking at people on low pay in the health sector and barriers they face to progressing on to higher value jobs.

"NLGN provides us with regular briefings on issues of importance to development agencies and local government, contributory opportunities for research as well as a forum for exchanging best-practice and listening to our key partners, including local authorities."

Police radios go missing

HIGH-TECH police radios which give officers crime-fighting information on the beat were among kit lost by officers.

More than £23,000 worth of the Cambridgeshire force's equipment has been lost or stolen in the last two years.

Among the items misplaced were 34 helmets, 83 flat caps, 111 pairs of gloves, 54 torches and an £800 ride-on mower.

They also admitted losing 42 pairs of handcuffs, 20 batons, three sets of body armour, 16 radios and other equipment totalling £18,000.

Figures released under the Freedom of Information Act revealed a further £5,500 worth of force property has been stolen from police premises.

The force had 15 bicycles and 11 sat-navs swiped as well as £200-worth of PC video games.

Thieves also got their hands on police clothing and official forms authorising stop-and-search procedures, leading to fears of police impersonators committing crimes.

A police spokesman said: "The force employs more than 1,400 officers and although all staff are encouraged to keep their property securely stored it is inevitable that some items of kit will be lost or stolen."

Traffic-stopping event among film festival screenings

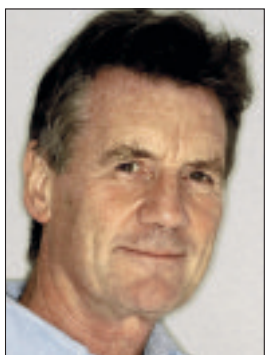

MICHAEL Palin, Charles Darwin, a dip in the Cam and a silent Abba disco are just some of highlights of this year's Cambridge Film Festival.

The 29th annual festival, which opens on Thursday, September 17, will mix exclusive premieres and star guests with a range of unique events, including outdoor "sunset screenings" on Grantchester Meadows and the chance to watch films while taking a night-time punt along the Cam.

A centrepiece of the 10-day event will be In Conversation with Michael Palin, which will bring the celebrated writer, actor and traveller to Ely Cathedral to discuss his career in films such as A Private Function, A Fish Called Wanda and Monty Python's various big-screen outings.

Other highlights include:

- Season of films celebrating the centenary of the formation of M15, including a discussion of the Cambridge Spies with acclaimed Corpus Christi College historian Christopher Andrew.
- Sunset Screenings on Grantchester Meadows – this curtain-raiser gives a chance to spend the August Bank Holiday weekend watching films under the stars, including a special "silent disco" version of Mamma Mia!, in which audience members will be issued with personal radios, and a preview of Big River Man, a new documentary about long-distance swimmer Martin Strel's record-breaking swim up the entire length of the Amazon. Strel will also take to the Cam for a quick dip before the film.

- Riverside Screenings – building on its success last year, a flotilla of punts will glide along in the moonlight, stopping at points so audiences can enjoy films projected from the opposite side of the bank.

- Peep Show – comedian Robert Webb will be in town to introduce an exclusive preview of the new series Channel 4's hit comedy Peep Show.

- Creation – a chance to see John Amiel's eagerly-awaited new biopic of Charles Darwin, starring Hollywood heartthrob Paul Bettany as the father of evolutionary biology. Festival organisers are hoping both Bettany and Amiel will be present for the screening.

Festival director Tony Jones said: "This year we are continuing the great Cambridge Film Festival tradition of screening films both in and out of the cinema and literally taking film onto the streets of the city."

"We have events planned in venues as diverse as Ely Cathedral and Grantchester Meadows, and a free outdoor silent cinema event in the historic city centre, where we're blocking off the road to traffic."

"Technically it's a big challenge, but we're all looking forward to another diverse and energetic festival."

Flowers bloom in packed programme

THE Haverhill and District Flower Club will be staging its annual floral art competition at the arts centre at the weekend.

The show will be open free to the public from 1.30-5pm on Saturday and 10am-4.30pm on Sunday.

With 22 exhibitors coming from different parts of East Anglia to stage around 50 displays, the show promises to be even better than last year.

Meanwhile, the arts centre's new theatre brochure will be hitting the doormats shortly. Here are a few of the delights lined up:

■ Haverhill's very own Shakespeare company, Outspoken Theatre, will perform The Merry Wives of Windsor on Thursday, September 3, at 7.30pm.

■ Rob Dee makes a welcome return in The Two Kings of Rock 'n' Roll on Saturday, September 5. If you managed to catch him in Rock the Night Away in 2007, you'll be keen to catch his Billy Fury and Elvis tribute night. The show is in aid of Cambridge's Arthur Rank Hospice.

■ Scamp Theatre, the group behind Aesop's Fables, has a treat in store for children aged four and up when they perform Stick Man on Friday, September 11.

Adapted from the book by Julia Donaldson, this is a touching, funny and utterly original show that will be a sure-fire hit with the children.

■ Funny, shocking and profoundly moving, Black Ram Theatre's production of One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest sees boisterous, bawling Randal P. McMurphy feigning mental illness to avoid a lengthy stretch at the work farm penitentiary on Saturday, September 12 at 7.30pm.

■ Almost like a combination of classical and rock, The Enid are probably the top of the symphonic tradition and they will be at the arts centre on Friday, September 18 at 8pm.

■ On the cinema side the long awaited Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince (12A) arrives in September as Harry Potter begins his sixth year at Hogwarts.

Winging it for plane's anniversary at museum

CLASSIC Wings celebrates the 75th anniversary of the de Havilland Dragon Rapide at Imperial War Museum Duxford on Sunday, August 23.

There will be the opportunity to get on board and explore a static Dragon Rapide at close quarters. Visitors will also be able to find out more about the aircraft's fascinating history by chatting to Classic Wings' staff and pilots.

The de Havilland Dragon Rapide made a significant contribution to the outcome of the Second World War as a communications and navigation trainer. It also holds a special place in the history of commercial flight, being one of the first passenger airliners.

Classic Wings' Dragon Rapide featured in Britain's Greatest

Machines with Chris Barrie and in Britain from Above with Andrew Marr.

Don't miss this opportunity to indulge in the nostalgia of air travel at its most sophisticated.

Double opera bill for historic house

THE picturesque grounds of Madingley Hall will be the magnificent backdrop for a double-bill of outstanding open-air opera this weekend.

Touring company Opera Brava will be performing Puccini's La Bohème at the 16th century country house in Cambridge tomorrow night. It is the first time the hall and conference centre, part of the University of Cambridge, has staged an open-air opera. It is also a welcome return to the city for Opera Brava who once staged annual productions at Anglesey Abbey.

Set in Paris in the 1830s among a group of impoverished Bohemians, the opera centres around the tragic love affair between the seamstress Mimì, performed by international soprano Gillian Webster, and the jealous poet Rodolfo, tenor Daniel Meades. Frivolity, joy, tenderness and sorrow are all expressed in the wonderful music of this most treasured of operas.

The company returns on Saturday to perform The Marriage of Figaro with top soprano Amanda Buckland as Countess Almaviva, Matt Sprange as Figaro and Anna Patalong as Susanna. Mozart's masterpiece is all about fun, foibles, and intrigues charting the hilarious twists and turns that befall Susanna and Figaro on their wedding day.

With baritone Andrew Mayor as Count Almaviva, Opera Brava have assembled a highly accomplished and distinguished cast for a full-costumed production of this joyful farce that has already won rave reviews.

Performances are from 7.30-

On song: Amanda Buckland will take to the grounds of Madingley Hall this weekend in The Marriage of Figaro.

How you can save the fruits of your labour

It's a gardeners' dilemma at harvest time: pick your veg when it's tender and your fruit when it's just ripe, eat as much as you can, give some away – and then what do you do with the rest?

How do you store them all? Most families cannot manage all the runner beans and courgettes they have grown this season, let alone the summer fruit, so end up with harvests lurking at the bottom of the freezer months later.

But there are particular crops harvested throughout the summer which you will enjoy eating in the winter months and which keep better than others, provided you store them properly.

You can freeze raspberries in a single layer on metal trays. Once frozen, the fruits should be transferred to polythene bags or plastic boxes, which makes them easier to separate when required.

Redcurrants also make useful fruits in the winter, pepping up puddings and pies, and should be frozen in the same way as raspberries.

If you pick blackcurrants when they have ripened fully, they also freeze well and you can save time by freezing whole bunches.

Anyone who has ever tried to freeze strawberries will know that they usually end up a soggy mess during the

by Hannah Stephenson

defrosting process.

So if you want the taste of summer strawberries, puree them before freezing and they can be added to ice cream in winter or used as a coulis around a delicious chocolate dessert.

There are many vegetables that will freeze well, including dwarf French beans, garden peas, broad beans and mangetout. They should be frozen in small quantities, so each time you take out a bag it will do for the family meal.

Cauliflower and calabrese can also be frozen, and the best way is to remove the largest stalks and separate into florets, freezing on metal trays before transferring to a bag.

If you want to store vegetables for longer than a month, you should blanch them first, putting them into a colander and plunging them in boiling water for up to three minutes (sweetcorn requires up to six minutes) before cooling them quickly in a bowl of iced water.

To freeze spinach, it's best to cook it first, removing the stalks and then simmering until soft. It can then be squeezed to eliminate the excess water, rolled into balls and frozen.

Anyone with a glut of ripe herbs should also take action now, because they are wonderful later on in the year.

Freeze coriander, basil, mint, parsley and thyme in ice-cube trays. Blanch sprigs of herbs by dipping them in boiling water for a few seconds until the colour intensifies, then chop roughly and transfer into individual compartments of the ice-cube tray. They should then be covered with water and frozen before being transferred to bags.

Alternatively, pack the herbs into butter and freeze that in cubes, or add them to flavour olive oil or wine vinegar.

Tomatoes don't freeze well as a fruit, but the answer again is to skin them.

Pour boiling water over the fruit, leave for a few minutes and then the skin should come off easily.

After that, puree and freeze them, ready to add to bolognese and other tomato-based pasta sauces or casseroles.

You can keep other surpluses of vegetables by liquidising them, freezing them in bags or food boxes and using them as a base for soup.

And if you run out of space in your freezer, remember that potatoes, carrots, parsnips, leeks and sprouts can be left in the ground or on the plant until required in the winter.

BEST OF THE BUNCH Sunflower (Helianthus)

They are the most majestic of plants and yet the easiest to grow, and ideal for kids to sow as the seeds are big enough for little fingers to handle.

Sunflowers reach their peak between July and September, and the giant varieties reach 38cm across because they only produce a single stem with one massive head at the top. You can also buy branching varieties to use as cut flowers and dwarf versions to enjoy as patio plants.

When flowering has finished, leave the seedheads standing as the birds will enjoy a feeding frenzy on the seeds in the middle of the flowers.

For maximum size, feed the plants weekly with liquid fertiliser and stake tall varieties. Good annual varieties include H annuus 'Autumn Beauty', which comes in mixed shades from lemon to dark red, but there are also perennial types which aren't as tall and whose flowers measure 5-7.5cm across. These are better suited to the back of a border, with strong stems bearing yellow or golden blooms in late summer and early autumn.

All sunflowers need a sunny position in any reasonable garden soil.

YOUR LOCAL LETTING AGENTS

Why sell the traditional way?

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property (mostly "nosy parkers" & sightseers).

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through (over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £000s it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fees and legal fees since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

Sell your property the CXG way...

The simple alternative

- Pay no Estate Agent's fees
- Pay no Legal fees
- No further mortgage payments
- Have cash within days (Instead of months)

Used values set to rise

USED cars have shot up in price this year – the increase is averaging 25 per cent for one-year-old motors – but even so, UK experts are urging customers to dive in now and buy, buy, buy.

The reason? Dealer stocks of secondhand vehicles have dwindled to an all-time low, says trade pricing bible Glass's Guide – and the situation is going to get worse.

"The remarkable and unparalleled recovery in prices since January might appear out of step with a depressed economy but, in reality, the higher prices stem more from the limited supply of used cars rather than a significant increase in retail demand," says Adrian Rushmore, managing editor of the guide.

"Be warned – prices are not expected to fall in the coming months, as the supply of vehicles becomes even more constrained.

"Since the third quarter of 2008, the very depressed new-car market has seen far fewer cars registered – particularly short-term rental vehicles and dealer demonstrators – leading to an all-time low in the supply of 'younger' cars for sale.

"So prices have risen, in line with the laws of supply and demand."

This pattern has been repeated in the market for older secondhand cars, where similarly limited supply has driven up prices despite the economic downturn.

Rushmore advises: "The situation for used cars of any age is not expected to change until the middle of next year at the earliest, so buyers should move quickly to have the best chance of finding the models that meet their needs."

Car pricing and data firm CAP supports this, adding that, because consumers are buying fewer new cars, dealers are unable to rely on part-exchange cars to fill their forecourts.

This means franchise dealers in particular have been forced to join the general clamour for stock in the open market, warns CAP, adding to the upward pressure on prices.

CAP's research team expect further reductions in the number of cars returning to the used market over coming weeks, with a resulting further average 1.5 per cent increase in average used-car values in August.

Meanwhile, the new Fiat 500 convertible – dubbed 500C – is expected to fetch a premium of up to £2,000 over the fixed-roof version when the first cars reach the secondhand market this year, according to Glass's Guide experts.

"I would expect a premium of up to £2,000 to be achievable for early examples of the convertible during the summer months, while availability remains low and demand for open-top models continues to be strong," explains Jeff Paterson, chief car editor at Glass's.

"Once autumn approaches, however, the price advantage over the hatchback may come down to around £1,500."

The Peugeot 3008: From £15,995.

Peugeot's five-star 3008

PEUGEOT's new 3008 people mover will cost between £15,995 and £21,895 when it arrives in Britain in November. Active, Sport and Exclusive will be the MPV's three trim levels, and will come with a five-star Euro NCAP safety rating.

Peugeot describes the new range as having "the flexibility and space of an MPV, the rugged looks of an SUV and the vehicle dynamics of a family hatchback".

Details from Marshall Peugeot on (01223) 377000.

Space case: 3008 is so flexible.

SOME GOOD NEWS FOR A CHANGE!

YOUR CAR COULD BE WORTH MORE TODAY THAN IT WAS BACK IN JANUARY!

The media would have us believe that it's all doom and gloom for the motor trade... after all who wants to report good news these days!

So you will not have read in newspapers or heard on national television that used car values are on the increase and have been for the last 5 months continually. In fact, your car is probably worth more today than it was six months ago.

The main reason for this is a high demand for used cars. At EMG Motor Group we have a waiting list of customers seeking to buy a used part exchange vehicle of quality, so there really has never been a better time to consider changing your car than now. Consider these reasons:

- ✓ We are paying the best possible prices for your current car
- ✓ We have some excellent offers on new and used cars
- ✓ Low rate finance is available
- ✓ The cost to change may be a lot less than you think

With this in mind you must, at the very least, be curious to know how much your current car is worth?

Why not call our sales team on 0845 121 1656 between 8.30 am and 6.00 pm to make an appointment for a free, no obligation, valuation.

ASK YOURSELF... WHAT HAVE YOU GOT TO LOSE BY FINDING OUT WHAT YOUR CAR IS WORTH? ..AND HOW WE, AT EMG MOTOR GROUP, CAN MAKE IT EASY FOR YOU TO ACQUIRE YOUR NEXT CAR!

Breaking up ain't hard to do

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

Thurlow search

THURLOW under-12s are looking to boost their squad for the forthcoming season. They train at Thurlow Recreation Ground on Mondays (7pm) and anyone interested should contact Ian Marsh on 01440 709178 or 07867 505132.

>> Tennis

ROSS Tobin successfully defended his under-14 title at the Haverhill club's junior open, while Poppy Phillips added the girls' under-14 trophy to the under-12 title she won last year.

Tobin saw off Connor Goodings and Tom Marsh before his final showdown against Liam Pagett, who beat Hamish Stewart and Adam Kelly.

In a close opening, the score was pegged at 2-2 before Tobin won a drawn-out fifth game to get the upper-hand and go on to take the set. He then surged into a 5-0 lead in the second before Pagett recovered to pull two games back. The recovery was too late, though and Tobin held serve to take the title.

Hamish Stewart won the consolation event, beating Robert Wyatt 6-1, 6-2. However, both players had to survive marathon semis – Wyatt beating Connor Goodings 7-5, 7-5 in a game lasting nearly 90 minutes while Stewart pipped Jamie Boulton 6-4, 3-6, 6-4 in a match which was even longer.

The under-14 girls' event was played as a round-robin as most of the competitors could have played at the under-12 level but one was over the age limit.

Phillips won all her games, but had two extremely close encounters against Harriet Patrick and runner-up Isabella Coutts.

Harry Wendelken managed to get revenge on Alfie Kennard in the final Champions: Harry Wendelken with the under-nines (above, left), under-14 winner Ross Tobin and Matthew Lister with the under-10s. CP

Brilliant Tobin's the tops in a junior open repeat of the boys' under-nines. After losing to his rival in a group match, he later beat him 7-2, 7-4 in the final. The pair, though, teamed up to win the doubles.

The under-10 boys' singles form was turned upside down from the start when late entrant Matthew Lister put out the No 1 seed Sam Howard and Fredrick Jones KO'd defending champion Gregory Coston 4-2.

Lister surged through to the final, where he beat Andreas Kitsis 4-0.

Aaron Smith picked up two trophies in the under-12s, winning the consolation final and then the doubles with Stephen Boyles.

Kurtis Nobbs won the boys' under-16 title, wearing down Adam Palmer 6-4, 6-4 in the final.

Goosen KO's title bid

HAVERHILL'S chances of lifting the Adams Harrison Midweek League, Division One crown were wrecked on Monday by their closest rivals.

They needed seven bonus points to clinch the silverware but fell well short of the target set by Sawston, who need to beat Abington at home tonight (Thursday) to take top spot.

Glen Goosen and Simon Potger mauled the Haverhill attack as Sawston racked up 188 for 1, the former scoring a stunning unbeaten 91 while the latter provided valuable back-up with 77 not out.

Haverhill wound up at 147 for 9, Adam Dellar (49) and Rob Sullivan (39) providing the backbone of their reply.

The town team set up the winner-takes-all showdown by crushing Horseheath in their penultimate match.

Haverhill raced to 154 for 5 with Neil Winter slamming an unbeaten 73 against an attack led by Gary Ellis, who took 3 for 37. Horseheath, though, could only reach 109, Ellis hitting 30 and Dan Goldsmith 28 against the likes of Simon Youngs, who took 3 for 37.

Also in Division One, Navishkar Singh took 3 for 10 to reduce Weston Colville to 82 for 8 in their pursuit of Babraham's 120 for 7 (Laurence Poulter 30, Andy Palmer 28).

An unbeaten 109 from Nick Wright gave Great Yeldham hope of safety in Division Two. They stormed to 187 for 3 before Stuart Coe took 3 for 16 to skittle Helions Bumpstead for 126.

However, Long Melford's destruction of Mill Green sent Great Yeldham down. Ashley Skeggs battered an unbeaten 132 and, with support from Stuart Whitehart (46) and Steve Hale (39), Long Melford charged to 246 for 2.

Although Paul Turner (50) and Dave Day (29) did their bit, Mill Green got no further than 169 for 9.

Hundon II beat their first team to earn their passage out of Division 3A. Chasing 112 for 8 (Kevin Poole 26), they eased home with two overs in hand, Martyn Farrant hitting 55 in their 113 for 3.

Elsewhere in the division, Daniel Willingham put the skids under Highpoint with four wickets as Gestingthorpe got the upper hand.

Highpoint managed only 59 for 9 chasing 127 for 6 (Chris Titterington 27, James Drury 27).

Ketteridge just can't down Pit

HAVERHILL committed the cardinal sin of not batting out their overs and slumped to a two-wicket defeat at Woolpit in Division Two of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship.

Although several batsmen bedded in, only Simon Youngs (33) and Dan Poole (30) made reasonable scores and the visitors were whipped out for 175.

Stuart Ketteridge took four wickets, backed by a couple of run-outs, but Woolpit managed to scramble home.

Haverhill are at home to Mildenhall II in the league on Saturday, before getting in the mood for their clash against the all-star Lashings World XI at their Manor Road ground on Thursday.

Lashings will be selecting from a list that includes Devon Malcolm, Graeme Hick, Ian Harvey, Phil Defreitas, Henry Olonga, Stuart Law, Jason Gillespie, Greg Blewett, Gordon Greenidge, Richie Richardson, Saqlain Mushtaq and team captain Chris Harris.

The match is all-ticket and they are available from the Arts Centre box office. Gates open at 12.30pm.

■ Abington recovered to beat Weston Colville and maintain their title challenge in Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs and Hunts Premier League.

David Pimblett's men were put in to bat on a soft pitch that promised much for the bowlers.

Stuart Duquemin's

dismissal off the first ball confirmed that, but Will Earl (58 not out) and Guy Ennew (27) swung the match back in Abington's favour.

Pimblett then hit a quickfire 54 in 49 balls to move the score on to 166 for 3.

Colville skipper Ade Westley, Trevor Westley and Fred Scruby each took one wicket.

The Colville reply struggled to get going, 22 extras being the main contributor in their 77 as Duquemin took 4 for 6.

■ Horseheath skipper Gary Ellis is confident his side have preserved their CCA Senior League, Division One status – despite a home defeat by leaders St Ives.

The hosts slumped to 60 for 6, before recovering to 170 all out thanks to the efforts of David Brown (45), Steve Lanceman (36) and Ellis (24). Matt Dack bagged 4 for 40 and there were two wickets each for Ollie King, Bevis Moynan and Robert Setchell.

Young bowler Steve Fox (2 for 28) claimed a double-wicket maiden in his first over to leave the table-toppers panicking on 3 for 2. But James Biddle hit 56 and Steven Smith got 47 to steer them to 171 for 8. Mick Ketteridge took 3 for 66.

Ellis said: "We're sixth in the table but Barrington lost again, so I think we're safe. I can't believe we're going to lose our last three games as they're all games we can potentially win."

Rover the moon!

Lee Salmon: The former Newmarket striker put Rovers ahead against Wivenhoe on Tuesday.

Wivenhoe Town 0 Haverhill Rov 2
Ridgeons League Premier Division

HAVERHILL go to Godmanchester Rovers on Saturday after making a promising start to their league campaign.

Rovers have managed four points from their first two games, getting their first win of the season on Tuesday at Wivenhoe Town.

And that rare away success has given them a lift before their FA Cup, extra preliminary round trip to Godmanchester.

Boss Peter Betts said: "It was a really good result for us and our first away win for quite a while. We missed a lot of chances and played really well."

"We were comfortable throughout and definitely deserved to win the game. So far it's been a good start to the season with four points from our first two games." Lee Salmon put them ahead against Wivenhoe after 20 minutes and Brad Hickman made the points safe five minutes from time.

A couple of days earlier Stuart Wardley earned Rovers a hard-fought point against likely title contenders Dereham at Hamlet Croft.

Stuart Kingham went close with a 25-yard volley and Louis Harper forced the keeper into a smart save before Wardley put the hosts in front on the stroke of half-time.

Although Dereham equalised, Rovers almost snatched the points in stoppage time but Shaun Banham's shot was blocked.

ARRENDENE SHOW THEIR HOT FROM THE SPOT . . .

ARRENDENE Athletic won the inaugural Haverhill and District 11-a-side competition. However, they needed a penalty shoot-out to beat Suffolk Punch in the play-off final. They finished 1-1 after regulation time but Arrendene edged through 4-3 on spot-kicks.

Thanks to solid goalkeeping from Liam Savage and the hot form of Aaron Stiebrins up front, Arrendene breezed to the top of their group.

However, a last-gasp winner from Suffolk Punch – just reward for the efforts of James Pagram, Derrin Harrison and Terry Eley – forced a play-off. And it was Harrison who tied up the tense final to take it to penalties.

■ The tournament is a part of the three-event Haverhill Summer Football Festival. The final event is on Sunday for the HAVO Shield at Haverhill Leisure Centre.

Champions:
Arrendene Athletic.
